

In Honor of Women's Month

Community Teamwork's
Center for Financial Self-Sufficiency presents our 7th Annual Women's Conference

FinanciallyHers

FinanciallyHers, offered during Lowell Women's Week, is a seminar focusing on women and their personal financial journey. Workshops are designed to deliver up-to-date content that supports women and directly relates to issues faced in today's economy. Our focus is to help women become financially independent by offering the right information, tools and resources.

Participants will choose a workshop, enjoy a lovely luncheon, spend time networking and receive a gift card to Market Basket.

How to Land that Job You Want

This workshop will provide you with advice and tips on what it takes to land that job you want. From having an up to date resume to Dressing for Success, this workshop promises to offer tools and suggestions on how to negotiate that job you want with a salary you deserve.

The Why Behind the Buy

Choices and spending patterns are important factors related to financial capability. This workshop will help you understand and identify factors that influence your financial decisions and teach you a variety of ways to counter internal and external spending choices, actions and behaviors.

Me and My Tween- A hands-on workshop for mom AND tween (12 and older)

It's never too early to learn smart financial habits. Whether saving a portion of a weekly allowance or understanding the deductions on the pay stub from a first job, good money management skills instilled at an early age can last a life time. Join us for our first-ever mom and tween workshop that will help you set your child up for a successful relationship with money.

The Power of the 700 Score

A credit score of 700 or higher essentially puts you in the "prime" group and opens up opportunities that aren't available to other consumers. The higher your credit score, the more power you have to negotiate a lower interest rate, qualify for the best loan product and request an adjustment on a credit card payment in the event of an emergency. This workshop is all about how you can become part of the prime group!
