KINDERGARTEN READINESS

Dear Families:

Before you know it, September will be here and your child will be starting kindergarten. This is a big transition for young children and it can be less stressful if your child knows what to expect. The Berkshire Museum has a wonderful children's book that can help you prepare your child for their big first day at school.

The Family Resource Network would like to share the Museum's brand-new online content series Ready for Kindergarten 2020. The series centers around a newly updated version of their award-winning school readiness book, In Kindergarten, which is now available to all as a digital book. The story is also available to watch as a read-along featuring the voice of Liz Anglin, Early Education Specialist.

In addition to In Kindergarten, Ready for Kindergarten 2020 includes helpful videos such as "How to Wear a Mask at School" that help children prepare for in-person schooling in this unique environment. New videos will be added every week and will grow to include lessons in skills all kindergartners need every year, like how to safely use scissors. Each week you will find new content and activities that will help kindergarten-aged children thrive.

We invite you to enjoy Ready for Kindergarten 2020 and all of the educational digital content for early learners at explore.berkshireremuseum.org, and to share it with all of the families you know that would benefit from a smoother transition to formal education.
